

CMC In Code Statement

The following statement is to appear in the model code that has been adopted as a CMC Standard.

Software is distributed as is, completely without warranty or service support. University of California and its employees are not liable for the condition or performance of the software.

University of California owns the copyright and grants users a perpetual, irrevocable, worldwide, non-exclusive, royalty-free license with respect to the software as set forth below.

University of California hereby disclaims all implied warranties.

university of California grants the users the right to modify, copy, and redistribute the software and documentation, both within the user's organization and externally, subject to the following restrictions

1. The users agree not to charge for the University of California code itself but may charge for additions, extensions, or support.
2. In any product based on the software, the users agree to acknowledge the UC Berkeley BSIM Group that developed the software. This acknowledgment shall appear in the product documentation.
3. The users agree to only use the name BSIM-CMG to identify implementations of the CMC standard models which produce the same outputs as Standard code for the same inputs passing all CMC QA tests.
4. The users agree to obey all government restrictions governing redistribution or export of the software.
5. The users agree to reproduce any copyright notice which appears on the software and documentation on any copy or modification of such made available to others.

Agreed to on __January 31, 2012_____ (date)

By: __University of California_____ (Institution/Company)

__Chenming Hu_____ (Name of representative)

__Professor of Graduate School_____ (Title/position)

_____ (Signature of representative)

